2007 Global Challenge – Salt Lake City, Utah

Coming together with nine other players you don't know can lead you to a rocky start, however this morning we picked it up and had a pretty productive practice. Our team chemistry had improved so much between meeting at the airport yesterday morning and today. This really showed in our first game, which we won in four. Between games our team bonded over a hearty lunch and an intense game of Mafia. In our next game we had a few more mental errors to overcome, along with playing a well disciplined team that radiated a lot of positive energy; however we pulled it out in the end and finished strong with another win in four. To finish out the night we had another rousing game of Mafia and an extremely fun dance party with one of the other teams on our floor. We are looking forward to another accomplishing day tomorrow.
